Intercultural Communication Skills - Basics
"Fit for Studying in Germany"

In this seminar, you will deepen your knowledge about Germany and the Germans and also do some self-reflection on ways in which you may encounter intercultural differences in university life. You will enhance your understanding for interculturally challenging communicative situations with professors, fellow students and advisors. Together, we will develop strategies to master these situations competently and successfully. You will also get to know tools to deal with “culture blues” or the infamous “culture shock”.

This seminar can be booked on three different dates. One of these seminars is held in German and good German knowledge is required (Placement test level B2). The other two seminars will be held in English.

Registration opens from October 4th in TUMonline.
