

Gateway to English Master's Programs C1

Planning on doing one of the many master's degrees at TUM which are held in English?

Now you provide evidence of English proficiency for a TUM master's program by completing any one of the courses included in this special module, such as: English for Academic Purposes, English for Environmental Engineering, Transatlantic Relations: Current Affairs in the U.S. and the E.U., Controversial Topics in Science, or English for Geodesy.

Not only is this a convenient way to meet the English requirement, but all Gateway courses will help you hone your ability in the core reading, speaking, writing, and listening skills needed for advanced study in English.

Please start by taking the online English placement test in Moodle—you'll need a score in the C1 range, or above. Then, register for your preferred course in TUMonline.
