Data Privacy

By submitting your application, you automatically agree that your data will be stored for the purpose of the tandem service and that your first name, surname and your e-mail address will be sent to your TUMtandem partner.

- How much time do I need to spend?
You meet each other where and when you want - e.g. in the cafeteria, in a pub or wherever you can speak with each other. It is important that you divide up the time: half the time you should speak only in our mother tongue, and the other half, in the chosen language.
- What will I talk to my partner about? How do I learn by participating in a tandem?
There are many possibilities to help you achieve your learning goals. You can have discussions or just ask and answer questions. For example, you can also speak about how you use idiomatic expressions correctly; you can correct grammatical problems and expand your vocabulary in the foreign language. Materials (newspapers, books, pictures, films, cooking recipes, etc.) support your learning together. They not only provide suitable language for any set situation, but also help you practice linguistic structures. Ask your partner for and look for materials of interest to your tandem partner.
You should respect your partner's wishes and prepare yourself for the meeting: ask yourself which questions on the topic you wish to pose, think about something interesting related to the topic that you can talk about with your partner and learn the relevant vocabulary for the subject you intend to speak about with your tandem partner.
If you do not have any idea about how the tandem should work, or if you run out of ideas, please feel free to contact: werkhausen@zv.tum.de
