Languages that developed from a common ancestral language can be grouped into language families. The languages we have collected can be mapped in 9 families.